Any discrepancies may result in UGA rescinding your offer of admission.

10. Short Essays

Essay A of the four available essay topics, below, is required of everyone using this application, and it can be addressed in as many as 300 words. The other essays should be limited to 150-200 words. You will have your choice of TWO of the three other topics for your Essays B and C. An appropriate approach for first drafts might be to focus on the essay prompts and the basics of good writing in developing your insights; meet word count limits with your final draft. Prior to writing your short essays, we strongly encourage you to read the UGA Faculty Statement on Diversity, which is available on our Web site at www.admissions.uga.edu. Please be sure to include your full name (as listed on your application) and date of birth on each page of the attachment, as well as the essay topic with each of your responses.

A) The UGA faculty has determined that the student body should demonstrate the qualities listed at <https://www.admissions.uga.edu/article/philosophy-statement.html>. After reviewing this, help us understand which of your qualities will add value to our community of scholars. (250-300 words)

Options for essays B and C:

- 1) Share a story about someone in your life (not a family member) who is significantly different than you. How are you different and what have you learned from your relationship with this person?
- 2) Tell us an interesting or amusing story about yourself that you have not already shared in your application.
- 3) UGA's First Year Odyssey Program offers more than 300 seminar courses for new freshmen. Some examples include "The History of Horseracing", "Einstein and the Theories of Relativity" and "The Zombie Plague". If you could create your own seminar course at UGA in any subject area that interested you, what would it be? What would the course be named and what would you hope to learn?
