PAPER 5: CONTRACT -1

(GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF CONTRACT AND SPECIFIC RELIEF)

Objectives of the Course

Every man in his day-to-day life from dawn to dusk makes a variety of contracts. Man's contract making activities increases with the increasing trade, commerce and industry. In a way, living in a modern society would be impossible if the law did not recognise this contract making power of a person. This prompted Roscoe Pound to make his celebrated observation: "Wealth, in a commercial age, is made up largely of promises". In this sense India is also a "promissory" society.

The conferment and protection by the law of this contract making power of persons gives them a considerable leeway to strike the best bargain for the contract making persons, in a way that they are permitted to regulate and define their relations in the best possible manner they chose. However, the contours of contractual relations in a feudal, colonial and capitalist society of pre-independence India cannot necessarily be the same in an independent and developing Indian society. Whatever may be the nature of a given society, the contractual relations, as are obtained in that society, are governed by certain principles which are more or less of a general and basic nature. In India these general principles are statutised in the form of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

This course is designed to acquaint a student with the conceptual and operational parameters of these various general principles of contractual relations.

Specific enforcement of contract is an important aspect of the law of contracts. Analysis of the kinds of contracts that can be specifically enforced and the methods of enforcement forms a significant segment of this study.

SEMESTER IV
PAPER 2: CONSTITUTIONAL LAW I

Objective of the course

India is a democracy and her Constitution embodies the main principles of the democratic government- how it comes into being, what are its powers, functions, responsibilities and obligations-how power is limited and distributed. Whatever might have been the original power base of the Constitution, today it seems to have acquired legitimacy as a highest norm of public law. A good understanding of the Constitution and the law, which has developed through constitutional amendments, judicial decisions, constitutional practice and conventions is, therefore, absolutely necessary for a student of law. He must also know the genesis, nature and special features and be aware of the social, political and economic influence on the Constitution.

The purpose of teaching constitutional law is to highlight its never-ending growth. Constitutional interpretation is bound to be influenced by one's social, economic or political predilections. A student must, therefore, learn how various interpretations of the constitution are possible and why a significant interpretation was adopted in a particular situation. Such a critical approach is a necessary requirement in the study of constitutional law.

Judicial review is an important aspect of constitutional law. India is the only country where the judiciary has the power to review even constitutional amendments. The application of basic structure objective in the evaluation of executive actions is an interesting development of Indian constitutional law. Similarly, the concept of secularism and federalism engraved in the Constitution are to be interpreted progressively.

SEMESTER IV

PAPER 4: ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Objectives of the Course

The Environmental Law programme, in contrast to the other curricula, has certain characteristics which make it unique and is one of the best instruments for breaking the ice of colonial legal education. Its uniqueness lies in the fact that the problems it raises do not relate merely to specific individuals but about such matters as national development, industrial policy, policies concerning natural resources, injustice to communities, inter generational equity and prevention of pollution. All these issues relate to problems about construction of a just, humane and healthy society. Secondly, environmental law necessarily demands an interdisciplinary approach. Thirdly, uniqueness of the subject is borne out by the new epistemological outlook which ecology-related knowledge has brought about in recent times. The development of ecological knowledge has necessitated an overall change not only in managerial studies but also in sociolegal explorations. This approach to the growing dimensions of environmental law is essential.

SEMESTER V

PAPER 2: LEGAL THEORY- PAPER 2

Objectives of the course

At the heart of the legal enterprise is the concept of law. Without a deep understanding of this concept neither legal education nor legal practice can be a purposive activity oriented towards attainment of justice in society. Moreover, without a comprehension of the cognitive and Ideological foundations of the discipline, pedagogy becomes a mere teaching of the rules. It is unable to present various statutes, cases, procedure, practices and customs as a systematic body of knowledge, nor is it able to show the interconnection between these various branches of law, procedures and principles. The fact that the basic nature and purpose of law should be clear to every student and that it should be the very foundation of law teaching needs little argument. A course in jurisprudence should, primarily, induct the student into a realm of questions concerning law so that he is able to live with their perplexity or complexity and is driven to seek out answers for himself.

It may not be possible that a one year jurisprudence course can impart knowledge of doctrines about law and justice, developed over the years, in various nations and historical situations. At best an undergraduate course should impart the analytical skill and equip the student with the basic problems concerning law and the types of solutions sought. Thus, the student not only will be able to use this skill in practice but also is motivated to take up detailed historical studies on his own after the course. Since a basic idea in the designing of this course is to bring jurisprudence closer to our reality, in the selection of cases and reading materials the teacher should try to make use of the Indian material as far as possible.

The course will comprise of 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER V

PAPER 4: FAMILY LAW I

Objectives of the course

The course structure is designed mainly with three objectives in view. One is to provide adequate sociological perspectives so that the basic concepts relating to family are expounded in their social setting. The next objective is to give an overview of some of the current problems arising out of the foundational inequalities writ large in the various family concepts. The third objective is to view family law not merely as a separate system of personal laws based upon religions but as the one cutting across the religious lines and eventually enabling us to fulfill the constitutional directive of uniform civil code. Such a restructuring would make the study of familial relations more meaningful.

The Bar Council of India has suggested that the Family Law is to be taught in two courses while the CDC had prepared the syllabus for a comprehensive full course on Family Law. The CDC syllabi being elaborate embracing various aspects of Family Law, each University Board of Studies has the discretion to divide the CDC paper on Family Law into two.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will, thus, comprise about 168 units of one-hour duration. (84 units for each paper)

SEMESTER V

PAPER 5: TORT AND CONSUMER PROTECTION LAWS AND MOTOR VEHICLES ACT

Objectives of the course

With rapid industrialization, tort action came to be used against manufacturers and industrial units for products injurious to human beings. Presently, the emphasis is on extending the principles not only to acts, which are harmful, but also to failure to comply with standards that are continuously changing due to advancement in science and technology. Product liability is now assuming a new dimension in developed economics.

In the modern era of consumer concern of goods and services, the law of torts has an added significance with this forage into the emerging law of consumer protection. It operates in disputes relating to the quality of goods supplied and services rendered and in those areas relating to damage suffered by consumers. The law relating to consumer protection, lying scattered in myriad provisions of various legislation and judicial decisions in India, so connected with the human rights for a healthy life and environment, has now a core subject to be taught as an indispensable part of a socially relevant curriculum.

SEMESTER VI

PAPER 2: PRINCIPLES OF TAXATION

Objectives of the course

Power to tax had been described as the power to destroy. This idea is being floated often whenever the state introduces a new tax. Is this true? Is it not necessary that in order to raise revenue and place the economy on solid foundation, the taxing power should be conferred on the state? The power to tax shall not go unregulated. In the context of a federal structure the distribution of the taxing powers assumes added significance. Obviously, a study of the constitutional framework on taxation becomes important. Along with this, an analysis of the different laws enacted in exercise of these powers with their safeguards and remedies sheds light on the mechanics of the taxation by the Union and the States.

SEMESTER VI
PAPER 3: PROPERTY LAW INCLUDING TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT AND EASEMENT ACT

Objectives of the course

The course on property conventionally deals with the Transfer of Property Act 1882. More than a century has elapsed since the passing of the Act and far-reaching changes have occurred in the field in property laws owing to altered social conditions. While archaic feudal rules enacted by the colonial administration like the rule against perpetuities find a place in the Act, the post-independence development relating to control and use of agricultural land do not find a place. The obsolescence of the Transfer of Property Act, can be best illustrated by citing the provisions relating to leases on immovable properties. The provisions relating to leases under the Act are not applicable to agricultural leases and even with respect to urban immovable property, the provisions are not applicable to the most dominant type, namely, housing under the rent control legislation. Thus the existing syllabus does not touch upon agrarian property relations, which affect the vast majority of people or aspects relating to intellectual property which are important in the context of development. The proposed syllabus attempts at overcoming these deficiencies and imbalances.

SEMESTER VII

PAPER 3: INTERPRETATIONS OF STATUTES

Objectives of the course

Legislation is the major source of law of the modern era. Legislatures enact laws after much deliberation. No doubt in this process they have to take into account the present and future needs of the people. What are the matters to be reckoned with by legislature while enacting laws? With the emergence of legislation, interpretation of statutes became a method by which judiciary explores the intention behind the statutes. Judicial interpretation involves construction of words, phrases and expressions. In their attempt to make the old and existing statutes contextually relevant, courts used to develop certain rules, doctrines and principles of interpretation. Judiciary plays a highly creative role in this respect. What are the techniques adopted by courts in construing statutes? How far are they successful in their strategy?

With the above problems and perspectives in view, this paper comprises of about 84 units of one hour duration.

SEMESTER VII PAPER 3: LABOUR LAW

Objectives of the course

Protection of labour is a Constitutional Mandate. A Constitution inspired by the vision of social justice is committed to the cause of upliftment of labour. Well balanced industrial development leads to increased productivity which in turn is a factor of national progress. Labour makes significant contribution in this respect

Is labour merely a commodity? Is it only a factor in production? There may be different approaches towards this question. One fact is certain. Today's labour is engaged in a battle for position of honour and status equal with management. The law and practice relating to labour is the story of this battle. In this context, the study of labour law is not to be confined to mastering of the rules and regulations relating to the employment of the workforce. Its wings spread wider. It has its aim on the societal impulses on, and state reactions to, the complex socio-economic/ human and political problems arising out of the constant conflicts between different classes.

The student should get an insight into the mechanics of socio-legal control of labour relations and should be aware of the history, the present norms, the emerging areas and possible future techniques of labour jurisprudence.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will comprise about 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER VII

PAPER 5: INSURANCE LAW

Statement of objectives

The insurance idea is an old-institution of transactional trade. Even from olden days merchants who made great adventures gave money by way of consideration, to other persons who made assurance, against loss of their goods, merchandise ships and things and ventured. The rates of money consideration were mutually agreed upon. Such an arrangement enabled other merchants more willingly and more freely to embark upon further trading adventures.

The operational framework of insurance idea is provided by the general principles of contract. The insurance policy, being a contract, is subject to all the judicial interpretative techniques of rules of interpretation as propounded by the judiciary. Besides, the insurance idea has a compensatory justice component.

This course is designed to acquaint the students with the conceptual and operational parameters, of insurance law.

SEMESTER VIII

PAPER 1: LAW OF EVIDENCE

Objectives of the course

The law of evidence is an indispensable part of both substantive and procedural laws. It imparts credibility to the adjudicatory process by indicating the degree of veracity to be attributed to 'facts' before the forum. This paper enables the student to appreciate the concepts and principles underlying the law of evidence and to identify the recognized forms of evidence and its sources. The subject seeks to impart to the student the skills of examination and appreciation of oral and documentary evidence in order to find out the truth. The art of examination and cross-examination, and the shifting nature of burden of proof are crucial topics. The concepts brought in by amendments to the law of evidence are significant parts of study in this course.

This paper with above-mentioned perspectives in view comprises about 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER VIII

PAPER 2: CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, JUVENILE JUSTICE ACT AND PROBATION OF OFFENDERS ACT

Objective of the course

The criminal process involves increasing expenditure of government resources. At the same time it confronts a crisis of intrusion into individual rights in order to protect the commonweal. Obviously, criminal procedure has to be just, fair and reasonable to the accused as well as to the victims. Undoubtedly the process is to be carried out in an objective manner. Criminal procedure, thus, makes a balance of conflicting interests. This imposes a duty upon those connected with the working of the criminal process to abide by the law and to exercise discretion conferred on them in the best manner. Code of Criminal Procedure, originally enacted years ago, had undergone many trials and experiments, too enormous to be placed within a classroom discussion. However, the students should obtain a fair idea how the code works as the main spring of the criminal justice delivery system and should be exposed to the significant riddles of the procedure.

Juvenile justice and probation of offenders are combined with the study of criminal procedure. These topics also do have their roots in criminal procedure. The rubrics under their head are intended to render an essential grasp of the areas.

This paper with the above perspectives comprises about 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER VIIIPAPER 3: CIVIL PROCEDURE AND LIMITATION ACT*Objectives of the course

Civil Procedure Code is a subject of daily use by the courts and lawyers and a student cannot afford to have scant knowledge of civil procedure when he goes out to practice as a lawyer. True that it is through experience one gets expert knowledge of civil procedure. However, it is necessary to have good grounding in the subject before one enters the profession. While the substantive law determines the rights of parties, procedural law sets down the norms for enforcement. Whenever civil rights of persons are affected by action, judicial decisions will supply the omissions in the law.

The Code of Civil Procedure in India has a chequered history and lays down the details of procedure for redressal of civil rights. Many questions may prop up when one goes to indicate one's civil rights. The court where the suit is to be filed, the essential forms and procedure for institution of suit, the documents in support and against, evidence taking and trial, dimensions of an interim order, the peculiar nature of the suits, the complexities of executing a decree and provisions for appeal and revision are all matters which a lawyer for any side is to be familiar with.

A delay in filing the suit, besides indicating the negligence of the plaintiff in effectively agitating the matter on time, may place courts in a precarious situation. They may not be in a position to appreciate the evidence correctly. Evidence might have been obliterated. Hence, the statute of limitation fixes a period within which a case has to be filed.

SEMESTER VIII
PAPER 4: ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

Objectives of the course

The modern State governs in the traditional sense, that is, it maintains law and order, adjudicates upon disputes and regulates economic and social life of individuals and groups in the state. At the same time it is also the provider of essential services. In the event of need occasioned by unforeseen hazards of life in a complex society, it engages itself in giving relief and helps the citizenry towards self-reliance. The assumption of unprecedented responsibilities by the state has necessitated devolution on authority of numerous state functionaries. The number of functionaries in carrying out these tasks has ever been on the increase due to proliferation of human needs in an age of science and technology. The aggregate of such functionaries is an essential component of modern administration.

A formidable body of law has come into existence for the purpose of exercising control over administration. For long administrative lawyers have primarily been concerned with such matters as excess or abuse of power, maladministration and abuse of discretion. However, in recent years there has been a shift in emphasis from finding what the administration may not do to what it must do. The courts in India, no doubt, strike down administrative acts which are ultra virus or in violation of procedural norms; however, not much has so far been achieved in compelling the administration to perform statutory duties, though a beginning has been made in respect of matters relating to fundamental human liberties. Most of the statutory duties imposed on administrative agencies or authorities remain largely in the realm of discretion.

A course on administrative law must, therefore, lay emphasis on understanding the structure and modus operandi of administration. It must take note of developmental perspectives and attainment of social welfare objectives through bureaucratic process. It should go into matters, which facilitate or hinder the attainment of these objectives.

Though in the matter of protection of rights of individuals against administration the role of courts can not be minimised, it is no less important to know the advantages of informal methods of settlement. Many new methods of grievance redressal have been devised which are not only efficacious but also inexpensive and less time consuming.

Remedies available for administrative deviance need a critical study and evaluation in the context of realities.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will comprise of about 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER VIII
PAPER 5: LAW AND MEDICINE

Objective of the course

The Constitution of India has certain norms to be operative in the field of health care. Coupled with these Constitutional norms, there have been many legislative measures. The judiciary had a leap forward and contributed significantly in the area. But there are gaps to be filled. While law aims at just society by adjusting and balancing the rights and duties of individuals, medicine aims at creating a healthy society by concentrating on the health of individuals. Law and medicine are thus areas of high social concern. The law in its relation to medicines is significant as justice and fairness in health care.

This course is designed to expose the students to the various problems of medicine and law and to acquaint them with the existing law and its missing links. Those taking up this optional course should acquire the capability to evaluate the adequacy of law in solving the problems with comparative perspectives.

This paper with the above perspectives comprises of 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER IX

PAPER 1: WOMEN AND LAW, AND LAW RELATING TO THE CHILD

Objectives of the course

The need to study gender and juvenile justice as special subjects is to be emphasized as the Constitutional Guarantees have not achieved the desired results. The fundamental rights did not preclude having special provisions.

The planners and the policy makers therefore treated women only as beneficiaries of welfare measures. The hope was the benefits of development would percolate below to all including women and therefore there was no need for special efforts to bring them into the mainstream. This trickle down theory of development is still to be materialised in spite of the positive action of woman's representation in local bodies. Women are discriminated in almost all sectors.

Children constitute the weakest and most vulnerable, most helpless as well as the most precious segment of the human society. By law they are denied participation in decision-making even indirectly and by nature they lack effective articulation and indication of their rights. Children are recognised as legal persons for many purposes if not for all legal rights are conferred by the legal system. The course should draw attention to the helpless condition of children and their exploitation and the sufferings of children in poverty. The legal limitation on their capacity and legal rights and protection provided in the Constitution and in varieties of laws are to be studied critically with the understanding that either the parents or the society or state shall be held legally responsible for the survival, development of personality and happiness of the children.

The course will study the above-mentioned problems and comprises of about 84 units of one-hour duration.

Students should be encouraged to look at the distinctive legal problems of children in the area where instruction is imparted. The literature on children's plight is vast and varied. But it is important that the focus of the course be on understanding of the distinctively legal problems in the region and ways in which we can contribute to change.

SEMESTER IX

PAPER 2: LAW, POVERTY AND DEVELOPMENT

Objectives of the course

The state of India's poor does not feature much in Indian law curricula. Only a few law schools offer an optional course. The Constitution of India - especially Article 39-A since 1976 commands innovation of legal system in such ways that no one, especially because of economic condition, is denied access to the law and its benefits. Insofar as legal education is a state-funded or sponsored action and even otherwise, this Directive Principle must apply to renovation of legal education.

The Constitutional programme of social justice displays a dramatic concern for the "weaker sections of society". Steadily, legislation protecting their entitlements has grown to impressive proportion in the last forty years. They would be advocates, counsellors, judges, teachers, scientists in law ought to have a complete grounding in these legal processes of "development". The burgeoning "poverty law" involves:

- (a) Constitutional Provisions'
- (b) legislation;
- (c) administrative anti-poverty programmes aimed at improving economic condition of the poor;
- (d) legal services programmes;
- (e) adjudication on the entitlement of the poor through social action litigation.

All these need careful study in this compulsory course.

The following syllabus prepared with this perspective will comprise of about 84 units of one-hour duration.

SEMESTER IX

PAPER 4: INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY LAW

Objectives of the course

The importance of this branch of the law is to be sufficiently realised in the Indian legal education. Compendious courses on the law of copyright, trademarks and patents are offered in few law schools as optional courses, but these do not either integrate the significance of these subject matters under any comprehensive aspect of 'modernisation' or 'development' nor do they spread even emphasis between and among the subject areas represented by these three interconnected bodies of the law.

The three areas are now internationally conceptualised as representing intellectual property. It is often the case that while the law of patents and trademarks is referred to as industrial property the law relating to copyright is named intellectual property. While both these terms could be suitably invoked, we here speak of intellectual property as signifying all the three bodies of the law as well as the law on industrial designs.

Unlike other forms of property, intellectual property refers to regimes of legal recognition of, primarily, the products of the mind or imagination. The subject matter of property relations is here preeminently based on mental labour. The law relating to intellectual property protects the right to mental labour.

The law confers rights of proprietary nature on relative intellectual labour primarily on the basis that it is in the interests of society and state to promote creativeness and inventiveness. Limited monopoly provides incentive for greater inventive and innovative efforts in society. An important aspect of the exploration in this course would be the ways in which the laws strike a fair balance between the interests and rights of the intellectual labourers on the one hand and organized industrial enterprises on the other. Another dimension is a study of the ways in which this regime of laws militates against, or favours, community property in national cultures.

As concerns 'modernization' crucial questions arise in the field of copyright protection in computer software and hardware, internet, electronic music and scientific research. Both copyright, trademarks, design and patent law here relate basically to the law of unfair competition and constitute an aspect of consumer protection and welfare not only in the context of national perspectives but also in view of the waves of globalisation already set in. Both from the standpoint of human resources development, modernisation and justice it is important that the auricular change takes serious notice of these areas.

The following syllabus prepared with the above objectives will comprise of 84 units each of one-hour duration.
