Note :

As this course is an initiation to work with groups for students of the first year M.S.W. Programme (who going with various backgrounds) the right balancing between theoretical content, understanding of group processes on the one hand and providing initial skills in group work on the other, has been a constant challenge for the teachers. It is suggested that the course is best conducted in a unit or modular form of approximately four hours each, where small exercises and class assignments are woven into each other. This allows the student to see group processes unfold as well as get a ' First hands ' experiences of handling groups.

M.S.W - SEMESTER –I
PAPER-4
WORK WITH COMMUNITIES, COMMUNITY
ORGANIZATION, DEVELOPMENT

INTRODUCTION

Community organization / development, as a method of social work practice, is seen as a means to facilitate communities towards self-directed change. It takes as its basis the inequalities in society manifested through processes of marginalization, discrimination or disempowerment of groups, which have resulted in the loss of control over resources, be they tangible or intangible. The strategies of CO practice begin addressed as part of the course covers a range spanning different ideologies, from those being people-initiated, and those that are initiated by the elite. Community organization is seen as a means as well as an end, where collective processes sustain the community's capacity to bring about change.

OBJECTIVES

- a. Understand the critical elements of community organization practice.
- b. Enhance critical understanding of the models and strategies for community organization practice.
- c. Make the micro-macro connections between the range of complex issues in practice.
- d. Field practice to include a critical and holistic analysis of issues.
- e. Develop attitudes conducive to participatory activities in a civil society.

Notes :

- The content for these methods are vast. Hence, institutions need to be discerning in their choice of topics, and the extent to which each topic will be addressed. The method of teaching and the depth of the topic to be covered need to partner each other. Workshop method is best suited to teach the content of this course.
- This begin a method course, assimilation and grounding of skills and attitudes to work is highly dependent on field practice, where students have the opportunity to integrate theory with practice, innovate and bring back valuable experiences and analyses to the class. Without adequate field exposure either concurrent or intermittent the course will remain just a theoretical input.
- Another important part of the grounding process is the interaction of the students with field practitioners who have years of experience and are in position to discuss what is the best fit of strategies in a given situation and context. Such interaction needs to be encouraged. Most field practitioners are willing to participate in the teaching process, both, within the classroom as well as in the field.

M.S.W. – SEMESTER-IV
PAPER-24 (II)
SOCIAL WORK PRACTICUM BLOCK PLACEMENT

INTRODUCTION

This opportunity is provided at the end of a two year post graduate programme. This time is to be designed for the learner to integrate theory and practice to enhance competencies of social work practice and experience one self in that role. An experiment of providing block field work opportunity at the beginning of the last semester or at the end of the last semester before the final examinations is also being made by some institutions. The choice of time during the second year, to provide this experience, is that of the teaching institution.

Objects

- a. Develop enhanced practice skill and integrate learning.
- b. Develop greater understanding of reality situations through involvement in day to day work.
- c. Develop appreciation of other's efforts and develop sensitivity to gaps in the programme.
- c. Enhance awareness of self in the role of a professional social worker.

Note: Suggestions for requirements.

A learner must be placed in one setting for a period of four to six weeks. There should be a professionally qualified worker in the setting willing to plan orientation and provide consultation, when necessary.

The faculty in charge is to select the setting appropriately to meet the learner's interest and needs and to integrate learning. The settings selected are to be communicated, well in advance.

An opportunity to present the experience in writings at the end of block field work must be designed.
