Many of these figures are estimates and reflect a wide range. Each student's situation will be unique. In addition to these start-up expenses, potential expenses to consider are moving expenses, rent deposit, costs of decorating an apartment, utilities (electricity, gas, and water) telephone, entertainment and subscriptions to business periodicals or newspapers.

 May be covered by federal financial aid when proper documentation is presented

How you will finance your MBA is a big part of your decision-making process. You will need to arrange for financing your education early in the application process. The length of time needed to secure your financing will vary depending on the type of financial aid you are pursuing. All admitted applicants are automatically considered for merit-based MBA Program funded Assistantships/Fellowships. However, you should approach the process as if you will not receive merit-based funding through the MBA Program Office. (Typical Graduate Assistantships only cover tuition waivers in the amount of $4,500/semester in-state and $13,594/semester out-of-state. Students must cover the balance.) The Financial Aid Office will only process need-based funding for United States Citizens. Excellent resources on additional educational funding may be found in libraries or bookstores. These resources will address loans, grants, fellowships, and other options. Additionally, university-wide-merit-based scholarships may be obtained through the Graduate School. (Revised 8/31/2012)
