Modalities of Submission of Home Assignments and Term End Examination

Assignments constitute the continuous evaluation, therefore, its submission is compulsory. The Marks in the Assignments will be counted in the final result. The student will not be allowed to appear for term end examination for the course if he/she does not submit the minimum number of assignments in time for that course.

The main purpose of assignments is to test the comprehension of the learning material and also to help the student through the course. The information given in the printed course materials should be sufficient for answering the assignments. However, if one has easy access to other books, he/she may make use of them But the assignments are designed in such a way as to help to concentrate mainly on the printed course materials.

These are Tutor Marked Assignments (TMA) which are generally evaluated by the counsellor. Whenever, you download from University Website / receive a set of materials and assignments check them immediately and ask for missing pages, if any, to Director (Materials Production and Distribution), VMOU, Rawabhata Road, Kota. The assignments should be complete in all respects. Before submission you should ensure that you have answered in all the questions in all assignments. Incomplete answer sheets bring you poor grades. The student has to submit response sheets to the Coordinator of the Study Centre assigned to him/her. The Coordinator of the Study Centre has right to entertain or reject the assignments submitted after the due date. You are, therefore, advised to submit the assignments before the due date.

If you do not get minimum pass marks in an assignment, you have to submit it again. However, once you get the pass marks in an assignment, you cannot resubmit it for improvement of grade. Assignments are not subject to re-valuation except for factual errors, if any.

In case you find that the marks of assignments are not entered in your grade card you are advised to contact Director of Regional Centre with a request to forward correct award list to the Examination Unit at the Headquarter. Directions: Read the following passages and pick out the correct answer out of the given alternatives for the questions:

- A. There are many ways to sort data. One useful way to organise data is to divide them into similar categories or classes and then count the number of observations that fall into each category. This method produces a frequency distribution. The purpose of organising data is to enable us to see quickly some of the characteristics of the data. Frequency distributions sacrifice some detail but offer us new insights into pattern of data. A frequency distribution is a table that organises data into classes, that is, into groups of values describing one characteristics of the data.

Questions:

- Which is the objective of organising data?
    - to quickly observe the characteristics of data.
    - to make frequency table.
    - to compress data.
    - to make frequency distribution.
  - What is a frequency distribution?
    - frequency distribution is to divide data into classes.
    - frequency distribution is a table that organises data into classes.
    - frequency distribution is helpful in putting groups of values describing one characteristic of the data.
    - All of the above.
- B. The case for mechanisation of agriculture is based primarily on advantages of production made possible by machinery. Man by himself can produce only very little but with the help of the machinery he can produce much more. What a farmer with the pair of bullocks can plough in ten days, a tractor can do in one day. Secondly, farm machinery has relieved man of much of the heavy work. For instance, land reclamation, digging and carrying of earth, ploughing etc. are all heavy jobs. Farm machinery helps to perform these tasks easily. Thirdly, farm machinery has led to large scale production. Huge plot of land can be ploughed; large crops can be harvested; huge amounts of produce can be taken into market; all these can be done by machinery without any loss of time. Output per acre as well as per man can be increased. The cost of production is reduced.

Questions:

- Without mechanisation of agriculture:
  - Cost of production was high
  - Output per man acre was less
  - (a) & (b)
  - None of the above
- The similar word for 'job' in the paragraph is :
